10th September 2008 - Coco Moon Launched For Single Professionals

Entrepreneur Sharon Kell is founder of North East based Coco Moon, an exclusive matchmaking service for single professionals with a difference.

Sharon speaks from personal experience, having worked in a senior executive business role for more than fifteen years, where she experienced first hand how a high proportion of people who have very successful careers often had far less success in their personal lives.

It is with this insight that Sharon launched Coco Moon, an exclusive matchmaking service for single professionals.

Sharon says: "At Coco Moon we recognise that single professional have a lot to offer and therefore a lot to lose if they enter another relationship which doesn't work out. Our exclusive matchmaking service covers much more than traditional dating methods used by many dating services out on the market, who potentially match clients with people who have merely shared broad commonalities, for example similar age, close geographic location, similar hobbies. Because of this they have very limited success.

Coco Moon's approach to matchmaking is different and covers a comprehensive process which gives real results and many proven success stories.

We offer all of our members exclusive invites to local social events. Coco Moon hub, giving our members the opportunity to come along to pre planned local events to broaden their social networking circles, meeting other single professionals with shared interests. Coco Moon hub is a hassle free way of improving your social life, whether you are looking for friendship, relationship or marriage".
